FAQ'S

What is the Benefit of Registering a Business as a Company?

A | Limited Liability & Legal Protection: A registered company is a separate legal entity, thus it protects your personal assets from your business's debts and liabilities.

B | Enhanced Credibility & Access to Funding: Registering a business makes it easy for potential customers to identify you as a legitimate operation. Investors are also more likely to invest in a company with a clear ownership structure and limited liability protection.

C | Tax Benefits: In a formal business, you can write off business expenses and save on Taxes. If you trade under your own name, SARS makes it very difficult for you to claim back tax for business-related expenses.

What is the difference between Directors, Shareholders and Beneficial Owners?

Directors: Manage the company and are responsible for the day-to-day operations of the business. The Directors' details also appear on the company documents.

Shareholders: Own the company and do not have to be involved with management of the company. It is common for the directors and shareholders to be the same people. In some cases another company, trust, or investors can be a shareholders.

Beneficial Owners: Any individual who, directly or indirectly, ultimately owns the company or exercises effective control thereof. This can be done directly through shareholdings, or indirectly, such as through another company's ownership. CIPC requires all companies to file their Beneficial Ownership register within 10 working days of company registration.
